THE GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 22, 1861. THE QUALITY OF IRON RAILS .- Quality not quantity, is the essential for economy in buying rails. How hard we have striven to impress this fact,—so well known to every and Toilet articles; Perfumery; Toilet Soaps; Poworkman or employee on a railway, -upon the hard heads of some managers. Now it is a fact that rails costing $80 per ton may be really cheap, while others costing 20 may be actually very dear. There is the same difference in the quality of rails, that there is in boots and shoes. An expert can readily detect the real value of rails as well as some railway managers can tell the quality of a piece of roast beef or mutton they are masticating. Just remember this fact; there | ing of-Asparagus, Beets, Beans, Broccoli, Cabis no company so rich that it can afford to pay for poor material for the superstructure of its line. In England the necessity of employing good iron for rails, is now, generally acknowledged, that, in order to insure a superior quality, one of the greatest railway companies have established works to manufacture their own iron; and another company, not less important, are just about to fol low their example. In the United States, too, the managers of the best conducted roads do not scruple to pay from five to fifteen dollars per ton above the quoted market rates for rails. They find this is true economy, and so will the ward the amount they wish to invest in postage rest of them, if they secure what they pay stamps or gold, and we will forward them seed by for-rails of the best quality. The heaps of return mail. We have a full supply of all, the refuse material which is rolled into the shape of rails, and peddled about the country at a low price, is just like Pindar's razors -made to sell, not wear. Experts for the examination : frails can be had if the companies are willing to pay for the service they render, and let us assure our managers that they can afford to pay well for just this kind of information; -or rather, they can't afford mus to have the information, no matter what it costs to procure it .- Railway Times.

If a pin be stuck through a piece of stiff paper, and the projecting end of the pin be entered loosely in a quill, open at both ends, no 10: ce with which the lungs can blow through the quill will repel the paper. The paper, at the same time will not quite touch the end of the quill. The air escaping parallel to the upper service of the paper, rarifies the air above it, thus bringing into play the aim spheric pressure below it.
